

VÉTOQUINOL LAUNCHES UPCARD[®], AN INNOVATIVE DRUG FOR CONGESTIVE HEART FAILURE IN DOGS

Vétoquinol continues the deployment of its reference products with the European launch of UPCARD[®], an innovative drug designed to treat congestive heart failure in dogs.

With the launch of UPCARD[®] in 2015, Vétoquinol brings to the market an innovative solution in the field of cardiology. UPCARD is the first ever torasemide-based diuretic registered for veterinary use and forms a valuable addition to Vétoquinol's existing animal cardiology range.

Cardiac diseases are common amongst dogs, currently affecting around 10% of canines, an increasing percentage in conjunction with the aging of the population. Most treatments are lifelong and must be administered several times a day, causing considerable inconvenience to pet owners.

The efficacy of UPCARD[®] treatment is rapidly visible: the once-a-day only administration makes it easier for pet owners to comply with the prescription. UPCARD improves the animal's quality of life and its life expectancy.

Vétoquinol CEO Matthieu Frechin explained: "The launch of UPCARD[®] is the culmination of a major development phase conducted by Vétoquinol. After the completion of a centralized procedure reserved for innovative medicines, Vétoquinol has obtained marketing authorization in all 28 European Union member states.

This new reference product is a valuable addition to our range and is fully in line with the implementation of our strategy."
